

The Washington State Broadband Office, in partnership with Goodwill and other community organizations, invites you to participate in a focus group.

Do you have thoughts on internet access in your community?

Participate in this focus group to directly inform state planning for Internet for All in Washington!

As part of the plan for universal, reliable, and high-speed Internet, the Washington State Broadband Office wants to hear from as many people as possible to understand their experiences with accessing the Internet.

We are holding focus groups to make sure that the diverse voices of Washington can participate in this planning process.
